Hearing Dogs for Deaf People

Hearing Dogs change lives, they are trained to alert their deaf owners to sounds such as the alarm clock, telephone, doorbell and smoke alarm.

The practical value of the hearing dogs is obvious, but the therapeutic value should not be underestimated. In addition to security, hearing dogs bring their recipients increased confidence and independence as well as companionship.

In order to meet the rapidly increasing demand for hearing dogs they rely on the generosity of the general public for their donations to the charity.

I am sure you will agree Hearing Dogs for Deaf People is a very worthy charity! Join us in supporting 'Hearing Dogs for deaf people' by attending our 'Paws for Coffee' event on:

6th May 2009
10.00am to 12.30pm
The Hearing Centre,
132 Darwen Street,
Blackburn BB2 2AJ

We are offering FREE refreshments, tasty cakes & biscuits along with a prize draw to win an amplified telephone worth £39.95! Plus Hearing Care advice will be available!

Money raised from the draw will be sent to the Hearing Dogs for Deaf People Charity!

1 in 7 suffer from hearing loss...

It is time to stop feeling isolated!

As we continue to live longer, coupled with growing exposure to loud noise from modern lifestyles, hearing impairment is increasingly common at an earlier age.

Even a slight hearing loss can have a negative impact on our ability to work, socialise and enjoy life.

Common signs of a hearing loss:

- Frequently having to ask people to repeat themselves
- Having trouble hearing in noisy or busy places
- Misunderstanding conversations
- Finding that people are mumbling
- Increasing the volume on the television
- Avoiding social situations.

If any of the above sound familiar, it's a good idea to make an appointment with The Hearing Centre. We will carry out a thorough evaluation of your hearing and confirm if you have a hearing loss. Together we will determine the correct course of action.

I would like to have a FREE hearing assessment.
Please send me a FREE information pack.

Police hit calls target

Record 1.1m dialled force seeking help

By KATE TURNER

Police in Lancashire have answered the most non-emergency police calls in their history, new figures have revealed.

Last year police answered more than 400,000 non-emergency calls in Burnley, Pendle, Rossendale, Ribble Valley, Blackburn, Darwen and Hyndburn.

This comes after officers pledged to answer 90per cent of non-emergency police calls within 40 seconds.

In Pennine Division, which covers Burnley, Pendle and Rossendale, 195,540 non-emergency calls were answered, 95.8per cent of which were answered within the target of 40 seconds.

And in Eastern Division, which covers Blackburn with Darwen, Ribble Valley, and Hyndburn, 221,695 calls were made, of which 95.9per cent were answered within the target time.

Calls ranged from reports of shoplifting to vandalism and vehicle crime.

Superintendent Steve Pemberton, head of call management at Lancashire Constabulary, said: "We have a commitment to providing a quality service to the public, and this includes answering all calls promptly.

"This is reflected in the number of calls taken last year.

"However, we are not complacent and the constabulary will continue to strive for improvements in the way it answers and deals with calls from the public"

In total more than 1.1million non-emergency calls were made in Lancashire, the highest number since the police force began keeping records.

Hollie's talent wows TV judges

By NAFEESA SHAN

Britain's Got Talent latest sensation, Hollie Steel, almost missed her audition after fears her voice wasn't at its best.

The 10-year-old former Burnley schoolgirl, who now lives in Huncoat, had been suffering from a severe cold and lost her voice just weeks before auditions for the ITV show in Manchester, in January.

The Oakhill College pupil's mum, Nina, 37, revealed her daughter feared she hadn't practiced enough and was getting cold feet before the show.

But the youngster's family persuaded her to give the audition a try where she wowed the judges, including Simon Cowell.

She starred in Saturday's edition of the hit TV show, which showed Simon was seconds away from pressing his buzzer to eliminate Hollie just before she began to sing I Could Have Danced All Night from My Fair Lady.

Nina, who is an audiologist for East Lancashire Teaching PCT with husband Jason, 38, said: "A week before the show she didn't want to go. She had lost her voice and had to rest it, so she hadn't really practiced. Hollie is a bit of a perfectionist. But on the night of the audition she hit the high note."

Hollie learnt to sing at the Basic Junior Theatre School, in Colne.

The musical family, which includes brother Josh, 15, watched the show at their home in Huncoat on Saturday with close friends. Nina said: "Hollie is really, really happy. She has been practising new songs ready for the next show in May.

"Hollie really likes Simon and he did her a favour by giving her advice on how to improve.

"She is glad Simon has given her a chance."

Hollie, who suffered from pneumonia when she was a four-year-old, has been bullied in school for her height and her voice. The school have been working with Hollie's parents, who are pleased with the school's action, to put an end to the bullying.

Nina added: "It was me who said she should do some dancing because it is a variety show. We don't know what would have happened if she had started singing three or four seconds later.

"From the side of the stage we didn't see Simon was about to buzz her. It was only when we read it in the papers and watched the show that we saw that."

Riverside Nursery

We would like to point out that last week's front page picture of a four-year-old girl trying out a new adventure garden at Riverside Nursery, Lower Darwen, was not connected with the story alongside about grants of up to £20,000 being allocated to a number of named East Lancashire nurseries under the Sure Start programme. Riverside Nursery is not in receipt of any such grants and we apologise for any confusion caused.

Blow to theatre

NOT GIVING UP: Council leader Peter Britcliffe

By EMMA CRUCES

A £1.6million lottery bid to transform a Hyndburn theatre has been turned down.

The rejection has put the ambitious renovation plans for Oswaldtwistle Civic Theatre under threat. But Hyndburn Council leader Peter Britcliffe has vowed to never give up on the project.

Original plans, announced last September, had aimed to create a stylish community arts hub which would have been the crowning achievement of Hyndburn's Year of Culture.

The bid to transform the building with new rehearsal spaces, equipment, a cafe bar and dedicated theatre staff to liaise with schools, had hinged on obtaining lottery funding.

However, Coun Britcliffe said they were now working hard to find a way of continuing with plans. He said: "We are determined to bring about improvements and are currently looking at ways in which we might do that. We are all aware of the financial crisis rocking the country and it's rocking Hyndburn too.

"It would be easy to just say well, what can you do? But we haven't given up hope that we can do something."

Independent consultant Gayle Knight, co-ordinating the project for the council, spoke of her disappointment in the council's arts newsletter. She said: "(It is) slightly disappointing, but plans are afoot to complete the project in stages and prioritise the downstairs areas first."

Original proposals had included creating a more inviting lobby and a cafe bar for visitors and evening functions.

Banners and extra lighting would also have been installed to highlight the building's street frontage.

The plans also focused on encouraging more children to become involved in the arts. Rehearsal space would have been made available to schools and youth groups. Plans for the downstairs area involved the biggest changes, creating a large rehearsal area with a small stage for low-key productions.

Academy vision

By TOM MOSELEY

New artist's impressions have been unveiled of Darwen's £48million academy, off Redearth Road, which is due to open in 2010.

They show the central atrium and 240-seat central dining area.

There will also be an "entrepreneurship bridge" inside the purpose-built building.

The academy is currently operating at the former Darwen Moorland High School site.

Principal Brendan Loughran said: "Construction work at Redearth is progressing well.

"Significant progress has been made and the building is really starting to take shape.

"Students and staff are really excited about the new site and the new opportunities for learning that it will bring."

There have been years of controversy over the academy, named after its benefactor, former Capita boss Rod Aldridge.

Redearth Triangle residents fought a long court battle against the plans, which ended up costing the council hundreds of thousands of pounds after going to two planning inquiries.

The academy will also have a state-of-the-art ICT infrastructure, a new sports hall and all-weather sports pitch, a multi-use games area, an aerobics studio and gym, and a vocational skills centre.

AT SPECSAVERS WE DON'T JUST TREAT HALF YOUR HEARING PROBLEM.

Hardly anybody loses their hearing in just one ear. So wearing one hearing aid can cause as many problems as it solves. In particular, it's hard to distinguish the sounds you want to hear from background noise, making speech hard to follow. However, the price of hearing aids has always made buying two prohibitively expensive.

Now, at Specsavers, we've changed all that. We offer two digital hearing aids for the price of one, from just £495. What's more, our hearing aids are made by world-leading manufacturers, and feature the latest digital technology.

At a Specsavers Hearing Centre, you'll only ever be seen by a professional Hearing Aid Audiologist. We offer a full two-year guarantee on all our digital hearing aids, and they come with free batteries for the first 12 months too.

To find out more today, call into your local Specsavers Hearing Centre, or to arrange a home visit* call us FREE on 0808 143 1143. You can also make an appointment online at www.specsavers.com/hearing

Fight to save lives goes on

By DAVID WATKINSON

National road safety campaigning charity Brake has slammed the Government's decision to ignore calls for a radical overhaul of the way young people learn to drive.

Brake joined our sister newspaper the Lancashire Telegraph's Wasted Lives campaign in calling for a new graduated licence to be introduced, and for some restrictions on new drivers to be put in place.

And the charity pledged to continue campaigning for the measures, despite the knockback.

Transport minister Jim Fitzpatrick has announced that a new and improved test would be put in place, but a graduated licence, which would allow new drivers to build up their driving skills and experience gradually, would not be implemented.

This was described as a 'gutless' decision by critics.

Mary Williams, chief executive of Brake, said she believed it was a "real missed opportunity".

She said: "Graduated licences are vitally important. They are proven to be successful and already exist in many countries.

"They allow drivers to build up their ability and experience in gradual stages on a well-structured basis. Young drivers are more likely to seek a thrill from driving fast and cornering at high speed than older drivers, and young males in particular are at greatest risk.

"Seventeen to 20-year-old male drivers are almost 10 times more likely to be killed, or seriously injured, while driving than 40 to 59-year-old males."

She said the charity would continue to lobby for graduated licences to be introduced. Pendle MP Gordon Prentice, another supporter of the Wasted Lives campaign who secured a Parliamentary debate on the issue last year, said: "The Government response was immensely disappointing.

"The arguments put forward by the Lancashire Telegraph were compelling, so much so that every one of East Lancashire's MPs, including Justice Secretary Jack Straw, signed up in support. For it to run into the buffers like this is hugely disappointing. But I hope that we can see those changes in the future."

The Government had been lobbied by the Wasted LIves campaign, Brake, and the Transport Select Committee, chaired by former Lancashire County Council leader Louise Ellman MP, all calling for a graduated licence.

The government has introduced the Window Energy Ratings scheme. By using the same ratings system that items such as fridges and washing machines have been using for years, it is now possible to rate a window from any given installer. The finished window combination is independently tested, and awarded a rating from A to G.

So why are we so excited about how our premium windows perform...

Well, its simple really. Our A-rated windows have a net heat loss over a year of ZERO!

In memory of Nicholas

By SALLY HENFIELD

A trust fund set up to raise money for a youngster who died from a rare degenerative brain disease has closed – after helping collect more than £37,000 for other sick youngsters.

The Nicholas Appeal was set up in November 2006 to raise cash to provide practical and financial support for the family of Nicholas Robinson, of Beech Road, Great Harwood.

Nicholas was struck down with Alper's Disease at the age of two and became a prisoner in his own body, unable to walk, talk or even smile.

He lost his fight against the illness at the age of three, in May 2007. Fund-raisers then switched to collecting cash for the two main charities – the Rainbow Trust and Derian House – which had offered Nicholas respite care.

Events from auctions to body waxing, supported by local celebrities including Blackburn Rovers players Matt Derbyshire and Paul Gallagher, raised a total of £37,268. This was distributed between the two charities and was also used to pay for children from a special school in Lancaster to go to Disneyland.

Nicholas' grandmother Sandra Robinson said: "If Nicholas knew how much money everyone had raised he would be jumping over a rainbow with joy. He was an ordinary boy and he touched the hearts of ordinary people to create something that was wonderful for those who need it most."

Nicholas' mother, Stefanie, made the decision to close the non-charitable trust fund, but fund-raising for the charities will continue in her son's name.

Sandra added: "The fund had been set up for Nicholas when he was alive and isn't needed now that he has gone.

"Money will be raised in his memory instead.

"As this chapter closes a new one begins and we hope that our fund-raising efforts will continue to help many more people in the future."

Bags of choice

Next time you go shopping, check out what the stores on your own doorstep can offer.

For here in East Lancashire we are fortunate to have bags of choice when it comes to local retailing.

Whether you opt to go into town, to spend in the large shopping centres, or pop into the smaller outlets serving your own residential area and community, you'll find plenty of choice.

Markets have also played a big part over the years in the local shopping scene, whether you pop into the traditional market halls, with their colourful stalls and friendly faces, or on to the three-day markets, which are set up on varying days, depending which town you are visiting.

East Lancashire also boasts a selection of mill shops, which first came into being via the cotton industry, selling textiles and fabrics. Today, however, the choice has expanded and you'll find mill shops selling a whole variety of goods at bargain prices.

And in this particular financial climate, it makes sense to aid the local economy, by buying local, rather than in the large, out-of-town shopping malls.

You'll realise, too, that traders are only too aware that money may be tight and will be ready to offer value for money, no matter what products, or services, you are seeking.

East Lancashire would not be complete without its local stores. While our major town centres may have some big name stores alongside independent traders, why not also stop along the way to see what the shops in outlying communities can offer.

East Lancashire's parades of shops provide the necessities of life, as well as goods that little more expensive.

Whether it's fashion or foodstuffs, books, buckets, lipstick or lighting, you don't have to travel far to find what you need at a price to suit.

Plea for alley gates

By KATE TURNER

Angry residents in the Mill Hill area of Blackburn have petitioned for alley gates to be erected after a series of vandal attacks.

Home and shop owners in Brindle Street, St Aidan's Avenue and St James Street are calling for back alleys to be sealed off in a bid to crack down on yobs and graffiti vandals.

Residents started petitioning for alley gates in 2006, and say they have been ignored by Blackburn with Darwen Council which unveiled £100,000 plans in February for residents plagued by trouble makers to apply for the pathways to be sealed off.

Under the scheme, only neighbouring home owners would have a key to open the gates.

Jacqueline Livesey, of Brindle Street, who is spearheading the petition, said: "We have handed a petition in to the council with about 80 to 100 names on from residents who want the alley gates putting up.

"We have been campaigning for the gates since 2006 with the backing of MP Jack Straw.

"Other areas have been given gates, but Mill Hill just gets overlooked. It's about time something was done.

"We have had to put up with kids hanging around the back street, drinking, littering and causing graffiti.

"We think the gates will lead to greater security and also promote a greater sense of neighbourliness. Only the other night all the bins on the back street were knocked down and litter was thrown everywhere. It keeps happening and it must stop."

Peter Andrews, of Blackburn Funeral Services, in New Wellington Street, which backs on to one of the alleys, said: "The problems here have been getting worse over the last three years.

"We have asked the council numerous times for alley gates to be put up and nothing has been done. They have put up gates elsewhere, but not here.

"Every morning there are piles of rubbish, or dog dirt, left in the alley ways and property is being stolen. We really want something to be done to stop it."

David Mallaby, from the council, said: "We are currently running a pilot scheme and evaluating the alley gates to ensure they meet the needs of local people.

"This is a three-year scheme and the alley gates will be prioritised in order of crime and disorder, environmental and fire concerns.

"We have had many requests by residents and will take on board their comments when deciding where future alley gates will be installed."

Re:act to signs of cancer

SAVING LIVES: A cab carrying the re:act message to increase cancer awareness

A new campaign in Blackburn and Darwen has been launched to help people look out for the early warning signs of different types of cancer.

The campaign, called re:act, will see billboards, taxi wraps and posters displayed across the borough – including in pub toilets – in a bid to get people to check themselves regularly and to know exactly what to look out for. It is hoped recognising the early signs of the four main killer cancers could save residents their lives.

Cervical, breast, bowel and lung are the most deadly cancers for residents in both towns.

And the area's NHS service is hoping to raise awareness of the symptoms so people can halt these diseases before it is too late.

It is hoped the posters and billboards will prompt people to look out for early symptoms and contact their GP quicker to enable better outcomes.

The poster replicates a blue emergency ward direction sign, with arrows pointing to the cancers. Leaflets will also be distributed to highlight some of the symptoms for the diseases, which include lumps and puckering of the skin for breast cancer; bleeding between periods for cervical cancer; abdominal pains for bowel cancer; and shortness of breath for lung cancer.

Makeover mum 'could be sister'

By JON LIVESEY

An East Lancashire mum has spent thousands on surgical enhancement to look more like her daughter.

Fifty-year-old Janet Cunliffe has invested around £12,000 on plastic surgery to boost her confidence since coming out of a long-term relationship.

She said she and 29-year-old daughter Jane now often get mistaken for sisters, or friends, when out and about in Burnley.

The former Towneley High School pupil said the difference it has made to her life has been "amazing", but she had decided against further surgery.

And Jane said, despite her initial fears about potential risks involved with the procedures, she is now happy for her mum.

Janet underwent her first surgical enhancement, a breast enlargement, in Paris eight years ago. Her bra size went from 34A/B to 34DD, which she said she was "really pleased" with.

However, after feeling "a bit low" following the end of a long-term relationship, she decided to go under the knife again last year. She added: "I went to Croatia to have my upper and lower eyes lifted, nose re-shaped and lips filled.

"I wanted to get a bit more confidence and to be able to talk to people without feeling self-conscious and now I can."

Janet, of the Manchester Road area, said the inspiration behind her new look was her daughter's "stunning" appearance.

She added: "I already looked like Jane, but I had the surgery to put that youthfulness back. We do a lot together, have the same fashion sense, make-up and everything. We've always been very close."

Before her mum had the surgery, Jane said she was "dead set" against the painful procedures. The former Ivy Bank High School pupil said: "I didn't think she needed it as she looked great before. But she's really come out of herself and I'm really pleased for her"

Citizen Time

Cain: it's good to be back

FIVE MINUTES WITH ... Jeff Hordley

WHAT'S IT LIKE BEING BACK IN EMMERDALE?
It's kind of strange, but really comforting, because obviously I know I've got lots of friends here, all the crew I know really well and everyone behind the scenes. Everyone's been absolutely lovely welcoming me back.

DID YOU ALWAYS PLAN TO RETURN TO THE SOAP?
I left that door open, and I left that door open for a reason. I knew that one day, I seriously did in my bones, I would be back.

SO, HAS CAIN CHANGED MUCH IN HIS TIME AWAY?
He's certainly changed. It's two-and-a-half-years later. He's got a bit of money in his pocket and he's been abroad in Spain. So, he's realised what he's missed, which is his daughter and his granddaughter. He's come back a little bit more mature, a little wiser, but he still has an edge to him.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO SEE CAIN DEVELOP DURING THIS SECOND STINT?
The producer basically said he doesn't want to cover old ground, and all I could reiterate and hope for myself, is that we find new ways of moving the character forward – new and exciting things for him to do. What I've noticed with the scripts this time is that they're really focused on his wit and the way he puts people down really deliciously. I'm enjoying playing all that.

Actor Jeff Hordley is best known for playing Cain Dingle in Emmerdale. He has returned to the soap after a two-and-a-half-year absence.

John on solo tour

Is there anything John Barrowman can't turn his hand to? He made his name dazzling theatre fans in the West End, went on to become a respected TV presenter, played Captain Jack Harkness in Doctor Who and its spin-off Torchwood, became a celebrity judge, and most recently launched his own variety show. Now the Scottish-born entertainer is taking to the road on a solo tour — and this time it's just him and the music

JOHN Barrowman is surprisingly modest about his success, which presently appears to be verging on world domination.

"I'm just doing what I believe I was put on this planet to do," he said. "I was put here to entertain people. It's just what I'm good at. I could never have been a carpenter, or a plumber.

"I'd have been rubbish because I'm not good at that stuff, but it seems to me that people want to be entertained and it's what I love doing." As well as hosting brand new variety show, BBC One's Tonight's The Night, Barrowman is launching an 18-date solo tour of the UK next month, including a gig at Blackburn's King George's Hall on May 22.

UP CLOSE: Singer John Barrowman

"People knew me for my TV work, for my stage work," he said. "But they didn't necessarily know me for my singing. And the thing is, I've always loved to sing. So I made an album of songs I thought people — my fans and more — would like to hear me sing and I did my first solo tour last year.

"It was such a huge success and completely sold out so, after releasing my second album, I decided to do another one."

Despite getting increasingly involved in the TV side of his career, there's nothing Barrowman likes better than performing live. "I love touring and meeting new people," he said. "And I love doing live shows. One of my favourite things is that we get such a diverse audience, everyone from young kids to old couples, single mums, nans, all sorts."

And Barrowman promises the audience will get the chance to see him up close and personal.

"People get to see the real me. The word 'raw' is a kind of gross word to use, but that's what it's like. I open myself up to people when I'm on tour. It's pretty personal and intimate."

WHY DO OTHERS LOOK OLDER?
Alice was at the doctors,he was new but his name rang a bell.
They were at school together,thought Alice , they got on really well.
He was tall dark and handsome, but forty years had gone by.
He was now bald,wrinkled and beer bellied ,not the same guy.
She asked whether he had attended Hollins High.
"Yes I sure did and very proud was I ."
"You were in my class Dr.Beech!"
"Thats great and what did you teach?"
First we forget names then forget faces.
Have trouble bending down tying our laces.
But age doesn't matter unless your a cheese.
Don't look in the mirror feel more at ease.

zoom in on life

Widex is dedicated to helping users find the best possible solutions to their hearing loss.

Widex is dedicated to helping users find the best possible solution to their hearing loss. With REAL, they are offering real solutions to real situations.

REAL is the perfect solution for those who expect the ultimate in listening comfort and quality sound, together with convenience and ease of use. Featuring renowned Widex technology and sound, the REAL series is the latest in affordable, state of the art hearing aids with no compromise in sound or comfort.

It is built upon unique Widex technology. Widex have long been at the forefront of hearing aid innovation and their reputation for unsurpassed sound quality is second to none.

The key to this success is their revolutionary Integrated Signal Processing technology. ISP technology continuously synchronises, controls and coordinates all functions in the hearing aid automatically in response to changes in the user's listening environment and the individual hearing profile. This helps users hear their favourite sounds naturally, comfortably and clearly. This works to ensure optimum performance at all times – even in noisy environments.

The Widex REAL comes with proven Widex features which make the listening experience more enjoyable.

Other features include 'Classical Noise Reduction' and 'Feedback Canceller'. The classical noise reduction allows you to move around in comfort even in noisy environments. It constantly analyses incoming sounds in order to distinguish between speech and noise.
For hearing aid users wind noise is also known to be challenging. However, REAL has solved this challenge, when the REAL hearing aid identifies wind noise it reduces the noise level accordingly.

Widex REAL is designed to be easy to fit and makes for more natural sounds so you can enjoy the benefits of the hearing aid as quickly and simply as possible.

Try out our Video Otoscope System - the most advanced tool to look inside your ears.....

Our unique video otoscope system is the most advanced visual device. The device enables us to demonstrate a live clear colour image of the inside of your eardrum and ear canal. This helps you to understand better how we are able to assess your own condition.

This is a quick, safe and comfortable method to identify any wax or other ear health issues.
